

Topic of the month:

How to get the most out of conferences

31 January 2020

13.00 – 14.30

MARUM I, room 2060

In this workshop, we will share experiences about how to make the most of your conference experience. Potential topics could be

- Organising your personal conference programme (so as not to overload it)
- Approaching people and get them interested in you and your research
- Preparing yourself for a poster session
- Networking at conferences and during the evenings
- How to ask (good) questions after oral presentations
- Making yourself memorable to other scientists

... and, of course, other topics / questions you might have.
