

Topic of the month:

Effective communication with the supervisor and successful meetings

26 March 2021

13.00 – 14.30
online via Zoom

During the pandemic, communication with the supervisor and the thesis committee has become extremely challenging for many PhD students. Many of you are waiting for feedback on your manuscripts, an opportunity to discuss your data or simply hoping for some encouragement from your supervisors.

In this seminar, we will discuss some strategies to successfully navigate your supervision and have successful meetings in a sense that you actually get the feedback that you need to continue with your work and feel good about it at the same time.
