

8 January 2013

18.00 - BANDONION, Gertrudenstr. 37, 28203 Bremen

Tim Schröder

science journalist, freelancer

Tim Schroeder is a freelance science journalist based in Oldenburg, Germany. Schroeder has a Master's degree in biology and a minor in marine physics. After completing a two-year internship in a regional newspaper he worked as an editor in the science section of the Berliner Zeitung. Since 2001 he has been working as a freelance author, writing for German and Swiss magazines and newspapers such as Financial Times Deutschland, Neue Zürcher Zeitung or the German edition of Scientific American. He also works for companies and research institutes such as the Fraunhofer Gesellschaft, Max Planck Society and Siemens.

Schroeder's writing focuses on the natural sciences, technology, applied research, basic research, energy and the environment. He frequently gives workshops and trainings for journalists and scientists.

In 2011 he was awarded the prestigious Georg-von-Holtzbrinck-Prize for Science Journalism. The Swiss Media-Prize "Eugen" followed in 2012.